Hall Expands Role as Title Operations Coordinator for Hocking Valley Title

Lancaster, Ohio –Sarah Hall, title agent/escrow officer, for Hocking Valley Title Agency, Inc (HTVA) has expanded her role as title operations coordinator. In this capacity, she handles closings as well as her existing financial and administrative duties she has managed since joining HTVA in 2017.

With more than 10 years of title experience, Hall reviews title exams, prepares title commitments, closing documents and settlement statements and handles title clearing and processing.

“We’re fortunate to have Sarah’s expertise on our team, and this promotion is a natural extension of the superior service and insight she brings to every real estate transaction,” said Bryan Everitt, partner at Dagger Law. “She is detail-oriented and focused on providing the best experience possible for our customers.”

Prior to joining HVTA, Hall served as a title processing manager for a title agency in Canal Winchester, where she oversaw the title processing and clearing department, ensured compliance and overall efficiency, reviewed residential and commercial title reports, and handled title clearing, document recording and preparation.

Hall, who resides in Lancaster, received her Bachelor of Arts and Sciences in psychology from The Ohio State University.

HVTA was founded in 1976 and serves not only the central and southeastern portions of Ohio, but all of Ohio’s 88 counties. They handle residential, refinance, commercial, agricultural, and industrial closing and title services. Closings are conducted in person as well as remotely. HVTA is an affiliate of Dagger Law, a firm built on more than 120 years of legal experience, including real estate.
